About this document

This document contains the information that centres need to offer the following Single Subject:

Level 1 & 2 Certificate in Office Procedures

City & Guilds qualification number	8965
QCA accreditation number	100/5787/0	Level 1
	100/5788/2	Level 2

This document includes details and guidance on:

- aim of the qualification
- syllabus objectives
- general advice for centres
- assessment requirements
- sample papers and marking guides.

About the qualification

Introduction

Aim of qualification

To demonstrate candidates ability and knowledge of carrying out general office work, communications, office systems and use of office equipment.

Level 1

This level is aimed at candidates' who are either training to work in offices and are seeking their first qualification or candidates who are already employed in an office and wish to enhance their prospects by gaining a first qualification in office work.

Level 1 tests candidates' knowledge of the content of office work, the importance of effective communications in modern business, the procedures associated with typical basic office systems, the fundamentals of operating a simple filing system and the use of the main types of machinery and equipment found in an office.

Level 2

This level is aimed at candidates who are progressing from Level 1 and candidates who already have office experience and are aiming to achieve a qualification that reflects their knowledge and ability.

Level 2 tests the candidate's knowledge of the structure and function of departments, the importance of interpersonal, oral and writing skills and the contribution of technology to modern business, the processes involved in business transactions and the preparation and organisation of meetings and travel.

Both Level 1 and Level 2 are free-standing single subjects with their own certification.

Target group

Those who propose to work, have worked or are working in first level clerical roles. It is suitable for those already following full time courses or those who require a foundation of knowledge upon which to develop further administrative, financial and or secretarial skills.

About the qualification

General advice for centres

Guided learning hours

City & Guilds do not determine the length of courses, or the number of hours of study required (ie in the classroom or in self-study set by the trainer/tutor).

The best indicator is when candidates have covered all areas of the syllabus and can successfully complete a sample test paper within the given time.

Success in the examination results from demonstrating the ability to achieve the objectives that will be tested. Practice papers will enable candidates to know what is expected of them in an examination.

The recommended learning hours for each level is 90 hours. Please note that the length of each course will vary according to the circumstances and learners.

Office Procedures – Level 1

The examination

General points

The examination lasts for 1 hour 30 minutes. (Plus 5 minutes reading time). Note making during reading time is not allowed.

Examination

The examination paper will be a question and answer booklet comprising of two parts: Section A and Section B.

Section A – 15 short answer questions covering all sections of the syllabus.

Section B – Scenario based integrated tasks covering a minimum of two sections of the syllabus.

All questions and tasks are compulsory.

Candidates must complete all tasks within the examination time.

Calculators and English and mother tongue dictionaries are allowed during the examination.

All final answers must be in blue or black ink.

If additional separate sheets of paper are used, make sure they are clearly labelled with the candidate's name.

Assessment

Candidates' performance will be assessed as follows:

Section A – 45 marks will be awarded for correct answers to the short answer questions.

Section B – 25 marks will be awarded for the scenario based integrated tasks.

Marks for Sections A and B are aggregated at least 40% must be achieved in each section.

Section A: a minimum of 18 marks.

Section B: a minimum of 10 marks.

To be awarded a Pass candidates must achieve 54%. (38 out of 70 marks)

A First Class Pass will be awarded to candidates who achieve 70% overall (49 out of 70 marks).

Standards

All examination papers are written to stringent test specifications. This means that each examination tests the same elements. All papers are then moderated to ensure that the standard is correct and there are not any problems with the topic or level of the language used.

Marking schemes

All examination papers have individual marking schemes which allow for a range of acceptable answers. Candidates who make valid points that differ from those on the marking scheme are awarded marks for them whereas candidates who write about the topic but do not answer the question receive no marks.

Although individual mark schemes allocate marks for content and style according to the requirements of the question, marks for the layout of standard documents are allocated as follows:

Memos –	Correct format and layout To, From and Date are essential Memo, Ref, Heading optional	2 maximum
Letters –	Correct format and layout Date, Addressee, Salutation Complimentary close are essential	2 maximum

Additional marks may be awarded for other layout requirements specific to a question.

Weakness codes

The weakness report is helpful in deciding how much further practice is required by unsuccessful candidates before retaking the examination, and which skills require particular attention.

Weaknesses are detailed on the results slip of unsuccessful candidates and on the results summary that is sent to the centres listing candidates results.

The examiner completes a weakness code as shown in the example below. Ticking those areas where a candidate has shown a particular weakness.

A Failed narrowly

Indicates that despite re-checking of borderline scripts, one or two too many errors have resulted in a fail. This code is used in conjunction with another Weakness Code.

B Question(s) not understood or misinterpreted

Used when it is obvious that candidates have misunderstood or misinterpreted a question due, in the main, to not reading it properly or reading it too quickly and not thinking before answering. Examples include giving employers' responsibilities instead of those of employees; stock control instead of stock requisition card; the requirements of a good filing system instead of the rules for carrying out filing.

C Knowledge of facts – restricted

This is evidenced in answers to questions requiring candidates to make a number of points and the same points are re-worded and repeated. Lack of knowledge is often apparent in questions requiring differentiation between vertical and lateral filing methods and trade and cash discounts.

D Comprehension/application – limited

Indicates imprecise or vague answers that display candidates either do not understand the questions or have insufficient knowledge and ability to answer them fully. Examples include inability to put business documents into the correct sequence when answering questions about the flow of documents and answers that omit essential information on the assumption that the marker will know what the candidate is writing about.

E Inability to apply knowledge appropriately

This code may be used to indicate candidates whose knowledge of the subject is good but who have not displayed the ability to use it in practical tasks, eg the completion of business documents. For example, candidates who know the meaning of the term 'unit price' but do not enter the unit price in the correct column of an invoice.

F Presentation – poor

Indicates scripts where the handwriting is illegible or there are untidy corrections or poorly completed business forms.

G Insufficient work submitted

Indicates that there were either too many gaps in a candidate's answers to gain sufficient marks to pass or some questions were accurately and completely answered but the paper was unfinished so that enough marks to pass was not possible.

H Answers contain irrelevant information

Refers to answers that relate to the theory of the topic in general rather than to the part of it that specifically relates to the question.

Office Procedures – Level 1

Advice to tutors

Syllabus

- Ensure full syllabus coverage and provide plenty of practice using similar tasks and questions.
- Correct and return candidates work with advice on those areas where it is obvious that their understanding is weak and revision is necessary.
- Give candidates plenty of opportunities to practise practical tasks, especially those requiring calculation.
- Provide model answers, showing how questions should be answered to help candidates learn what is expected of them in the examination.
- The City and Guilds' learner portal, www.smartscreen.co.uk, contains information about career planning, writing CVs and job applications that candidates should find helpful.
- Try to organise visits to offices and work experience for candidates.

Examination

- Advise candidates to make the most of the reading time.
- Emphasise to candidates the importance of reading whole questions, highlighting key words and planning answers before starting their written answers in the examination.
- Impress upon candidates that before the end of the examination they should carefully check through their scripts and neatly cross through workings, notes and other material they do not want marked.

Tips

- Read through this Guide with your candidates.
- Allow plenty of time for revision.
- Provide model answers to examination questions.
- Do not be tempted to skip any parts of the syllabus that learners do not enjoy!
- Give candidates lots of practical activities/assignments throughout the course.

Office Procedures – Level 1

Advice to candidates

City and Guilds want candidates' to achieve better results and the aim of this Guide is to provide the base for good practice and a clearer understanding of exactly what should be included in examination answers. It is hoped the following advice will help your candidates to succeed.

Syllabus

- You should have a knowledge and understanding of the whole syllabus.
- Keep a checklist of your course work, only ticking syllabus sections when you fully understand them.
- Make a list of the areas of the syllabus that cause you difficulty so that you can give them priority when you revise.
- To ensure you are up-to-date, do not rely solely on one textbook but use the Internet, your library and read newspapers and magazines.
- Where possible, undertake work experience in an office.

Practice

- Prepare thoroughly for the examination by learning and revising the full syllabus.
- Before the examination, make sure you have plenty of practice at completing forms such as orders, invoices and petty cash accounts.
- If you have your own bank account, use your experience of it to help you in the examination. Always reconcile your personal bank statements and study the information and forms relating to your account.
- Ensure you can compose simple letters, memos and e-mails using given information.
- Repeat all the sections of the syllabus that you personally have found difficult.

During the examination

- Use the reading time to thoroughly study the questions and make sure you know exactly what you have to do.
- Read instructions carefully and look at the marks for each question. This will help you decide approximately how long you need to spend on answering them.
- Make a rough plan of questions requiring the composition of business documents to ensure that all points are included.
- Check your answers to all questions, ensuring you have answered all parts of them.
- Ensure your handwriting is legible and mistakes are neatly corrected.
- All final answers should be written in blue or black ink.
- Cross through any work that you do not want to be marked.
- Make sure that you leave adequate time to check your work at the end of the examination.

Tips

- Think before you answer.
- Pay attention to handwriting, if a marker cannot read yours you will get no marks.
- Know the difference between vertical and lateral filing.
- Know the difference between trade and cash discounts.
- Practise working out percentages to help you easily answer questions that require the calculation of discounts.
- Remember – debit is 'in' and credit is 'out'.
- Make sure you know the difference between 'incoming' and 'outgoing' mail.
- Know the difference between employer and employee.
- Always ask your Tutor about anything you do not understand.
- Check you have answered all questions.

Scenario

You are employed by Lightzone & Foulger, Educational Publishers, as a trainee administrator. You are responsible to the Office Administrator, Natasha Li and you are required to complete the following tasks today:

- A health and safety report form
- A fax message sheet
- An invoice.

1 As you arrived at the office at 0900 hours today you saw Kirsty Marshall, a 19 year old filing clerk, slip and fall in the reception area whilst taking some files to the sales department. Due to heavy rain outside, the floor in the reception area was wet. The receptionist called for John Underwood who is responsible for first-aid. He examined Kirsty’s ankle which was swollen and twisted and decided to call an ambulance to take her to St Giles’ Hospital for an X-ray. As the receptionist was on the telephone at the time of the accident, you were the only witness. Make a record of the accident by completing the report form below.

6.1 Meetings

- Distinguish between formal and informal meetings.
- Identify the requirements for a formal meeting to be valid.
- Explain the purpose of different types of meeting, eg Annual General Meeting, Board meeting, departmental meeting.
- Identify and briefly explain different types of committee, eg executive committee, advisory committee, standing committee, ad hoc committee, sub committee.
- Identify and describe the duties and responsibilities involved in organising a meeting (before, during and after).
- Describe and prepare documentation required in connection with meetings, ie notice, agenda, Chairperson's agenda and brief minutes or report.
- Recognise standard meeting terminology and be able to define the principal terms, ie quorum, ex officio, co-opt, motion, amendment, rider, resolution, point of order, unanimous, verbatim.

6.2 Travel arrangements

- Identify relevant information sources, eg agencies, consulates, timetables, hotel guides, maps, directories.
- Give information on travel documentation, eg passports, visas, health certificates, insurance certificates, driving licences, travellers' cheques, credit cards, foreign currency.
- Plan journeys and prepare itineraries taking into account constraints, eg international time and climatic differences, time available, budgets.
- Request and confirm reservations for rooms and car hire.
- Describe actions to be taken to ensure smooth running of office during absence.

Office Procedures – Level 2

The examination

General points

The examination lasts for 2 hours. (Plus 5 minutes reading time) Note making during reading time is not allowed.

Competences and knowledge tested in Office Procedures Level 1 is expected.

Examination

The examination paper will be a question and answer booklet comprising two parts: Section A and Section B.

Section A – 12 short answer questions covering all sections of the syllabus.

Section B – scenario based integrated tasks covering a minimum of two sections of the syllabus, giving realistic background data and material for situation-based activities.

All questions and tasks are compulsory.

All final answers must be in blue or black ink.

Candidates must complete all tasks within the examination time.

Calculators and English and mother tongue dictionaries are allowed during the examination.

If additional separate sheets of paper are used, make sure they are clearly labelled with the candidate's name.

Assessment

Candidates' performance will be assessed as follows:

Section A – 60 marks will be awarded for correct answers to the short answer questions.

Section B – 40 marks will be awarded for the scenario based integrated tasks.

Candidates' answers are expected to demonstrate progression from the syllabus objectives tested in the Level 1 Office Procedures examination.

Marks for Sections A and B are aggregated at least 40% must be achieved in each section.

Section A: a minimum of 24 marks

Section B: a minimum of 16 marks

To be awarded a Pass candidates must achieve 55% (55 out of 100 marks)

A First Class Pass will be awarded to candidates who achieve 70% overall (70 out of 100 marks)

Standards

All examination papers are written to stringent test specifications. This means that each examination tests the same elements. All papers are then moderated to ensure that the standard is correct and there are not any problems with the topic or level of the language used.

Marking schemes

All examination papers have individual marking schemes which allow for a range of acceptable answers. Candidates who make valid points that differ from those on the marking scheme are awarded marks for them whereas candidates who write about the topic but do not answer the question receive no marks.

Although individual mark schemes allocate marks for content and style according to the requirements of the question, marks for the layout of standard documents are allocated as follows:

Memos	Correct format and layout To, From and Date are essential Memo, Ref, Headings are optional	maximum 2 marks
Reports	Correct format and layout. Heading/Title, To, From and Date are essential	maximum 2 marks
Letters	Correct format and layout Date, Addressee, Salutation and Complimentary Close are essential	maximum 2 marks

Weakness codes

The weakness report is helpful in deciding how much further practice is required by unsuccessful candidates before retaking the examination, and which skills require particular attention. Weaknesses are detailed on the results slip of unsuccessful candidates and on the results summary that is sent to the centres listing candidates results.

The examiner completes a weakness code as shown in the example below. Ticking those areas where a candidate has shown a particular weakness.

A Failed narrowly

Indicates that despite re-checking of borderline scripts, one or two too many errors have resulted in a fail. This code is used in conjunction with another Weakness Code.

B Question(s) not understood or misinterpreted

Used when it is obvious that candidates have misunderstood or misinterpreted a question due, in the main, to not reading it properly or reading it too quickly and not thinking before answering. Examples include giving employers' responsibilities instead of those of employees; stock control instead of stock requisition card; the requirements of a good filing system instead of the rules for carrying out filing.

C Knowledge of facts – restricted

This is evidenced in answers to questions requiring candidates to make a number of points and the same points are re-worded and repeated. Lack of knowledge is often apparent in questions requiring differentiation between vertical and lateral filing methods and trade and cash discounts.

D Comprehension/application – limited

Indicates imprecise or vague answers that display candidates either do not understand the questions or have insufficient knowledge and ability to answer them fully. Examples include inability to put business documents into the correct sequence when answering questions about the flow of documents and answers that omit essential information on the assumption that the marker will know what the candidate is writing about.

E Inability to apply knowledge appropriately

This code may be used to indicate candidates whose knowledge of the subject is good but who have not displayed the ability to use it in practical tasks, eg the completion of business documents. For example, candidates who know the meaning of the term 'unit price' but do not enter the unit price in the correct column of an invoice.

F Presentation – poor

Indicates scripts where the handwriting is illegible or there are untidy corrections or poorly completed business forms.

G Insufficient work submitted

Indicates that there were either too many gaps in a candidate's answers to gain sufficient marks to pass or some questions were accurately and completely answered but the paper was unfinished so that enough marks to pass was not possible.

H Answers contain irrelevant information

Refers to answers that relate to the theory of the topic in general rather than to the part of it that specifically relates to the question.

Office Procedures – Level 2

Advice to tutors

Syllabus

- Ensure full syllabus coverage – not just the parts learners enjoy.
- Build in plenty of time for revision throughout and at the end of the course.
- Make sure candidates know how to work out percentages and how to balance petty cash accounts.
- Ensure candidates are familiar with the format of the examination by working sample papers. These can be found at the end of this section and are downloadable from our website www.cityandguilds.com
- Mark and return candidates' work with advice on those areas where it is obvious that their understanding is weak and revision is necessary.
- Encourage candidates to use the Internet as a source of reference.
- The City & Guilds' learner portal www.smartscreen.co.uk contains some excellent information about career planning, writing CVs and job applications.
- If possible, take candidates on visits to offices and exhibitions and try to organise work experience in offices for them.

Examination

- Advise candidates to make the most of the reading time.
- Emphasise the importance of reading whole questions, highlighting key words and planning answers before commencing written answers.
- Advise candidates to keep an eye on the time to ensure they have sufficient to answer all of the questions and to carefully check their scripts
- When they check their scripts, impress upon them the need to neatly cross through workings, notes and other material they do not want marked.

Tips

- Provide plenty of time for revision.
- Teach candidates how to balance a petty cash account.
- Provide model answers to examination questions.
- Give candidates lots of practical activities/assignments throughout the course.
- Provide examples of some of the many different layouts of forms and documents and give candidates opportunities to complete them.
- Select questions requiring comparisons and judgements from Sample papers and discuss in class to aid candidates' understanding.

Office Procedures – Level 2

Advice to candidates

City and Guilds want candidates to achieve better results and the aim of this Guide is to provide the base of good practice and a clearer understanding of exactly what should be included in examination answers. It is hoped the following advice will help your candidates to succeed.

Syllabus

- You should have a knowledge and understanding of the whole syllabus.
- Keep a checklist of your course work, only ticking syllabus sections when you fully understand them.
- Make a list of the areas of the syllabus that cause you difficulty so that you can give them priority when you revise.
- Where possible, undertake work experience in an office.
- If you have a bank account, learn from your own personal experience of banking documentation/procedures.
- Use the Internet and your library – do not rely solely on one textbook.
- The City and Guilds' learner portal, www.smartscreen.co.uk contains information about career planning, writing CVs and job applications, that you should find helpful.

Practice

- Prepare thoroughly for the examination by learning and revising the full syllabus.
- Practise completing and balancing petty cash accounts, ie finalising one accounting period and opening up the next.
- Practise your proof-reading skills – do not just rely on a computer spell-check. In the examination you need to be able to spot incorrect spellings on your own.
- Questions that require the insertion of an exact date relative to that of the examination need practice. Marks are not awarded for stating 'in a month's time' or 'in a week's time' when the answer requires the actual date one month or one week before or following the date of the examination.
- Practise completing lots of different examples of sales and purchases documents.
- Repeat all the sections of the syllabus that you personally have found difficult.

During the examination

- Make the most of the 5 minutes' reading time to thoroughly study the questions so that you understand from the scenario the context in which many of the questions have been set.
- Read questions carefully and plan your answers before you start answering them.
- Study the marks for each question. The allocation of marks for each question or part of a question indicates how long you should spend on an answer.
- Carefully check your answers to all questions, ensuring you have answered all parts of them.
- Make sure your handwriting is legible and mistakes are neatly corrected.
- Make sure that final answers are in blue or black ink.
- Leave adequate time to check your work before the end of the examination.
- Make sure you cross out any work you do not want to be marked.

Tips

- Think before you answer!
- Pay attention to handwriting – if a marker cannot read yours you will get no marks.
- Re-read questions and highlight key words.
- Check that you have answered all questions
- Know the difference between employer and employee.
- Always ask your Tutor about anything you do not understand.
